14The chamber of commerce of Little Rock last night passed a resolution to oppose vigorously the proposition granting $100,000 to the Little Rock and Helens railroad. The matter will be voted on next Tuesday, and five members of the chamber will be at each polling-place in the city to see that the vote is fair. If it becomes necessary, in Scott county, to send a challenge, they "do business" in a very unuistakable misoner. The Fay-etteville News says that Leonidas Glass etteville News says that Leonidas Glass has been indicted by the grand jury, for delivering a challenge in person, to a man named Marlow. Glass, who is seventy-five years of age, proposed that their left shands should be tied togother, and that they should fight with knives of equal length till one or both was dead.

Senate Proce-dings-Sharp Debate on the Bill to Regulate Charges of Public Printer.

stonce.

In an evil hour, Warren moved a reconsideration of the bill to protect owners of stock kept for breeding purposes. The motion was carried, and immediately the highestors renewed the wrangle which had been cut short on a former occasion by consigning the bill to the limbo of strangled bantlings.

The greater part of the morning was spent in discussing orthographical amendaments.

Ridley and Talley took a practical view of the measure regarding it as all important to the stock-raising interests of the State. Ridley, disgusted with the bill as amended, finally moved that it be isid on the table, and the wearied house said "Aye."

On Mr. Talley's bill, in lieu of all the bills and resolutions on public printing, there was a long debate. All the measures was a long debate. All the measures are considered and the surveyors put to work. bills and resolutions on public printing,
